I am emailing you in regards to the local control taking over by the state. This is no place for the state to be involved that is why we have local control local government so there is not too much power in one hand. I oppose the wind and solar in my County's which I have homes in several. If you choose to put a solar or windmill on your property that is your choice as long as the neighboring Community agrees to that and that is the way it is always has Been and needs to remain that way as to not have too much power in one hand. Your green energy solar or wind are not liable green energy actually takes a lot more to create those and pollutes our environments then it is to have them I urge you to focus on hydro dams which are profitable and green energy if you look at foreign countries doing this it is doing very well. Stay away from our farmers and our farmland and take your solar and windmills elsewhere we do not want these in our backyards. So again I urge you to step back from taking control over local government.

Sincerely
Jean Ellul
